PREFACE.

The settlement of Elizabethtown was the first within the bounds of New Jersey made by New England people. The Purchase of the land from the Indians was made by John Baily, Daniel Denton and Luke Watson of Jamaica, L. I., October 28, 1664, and the Patent granted by Gov. Nicolls to Capt. John Baker, John Ogden, John Baily, Luke Watson "and their associates," confirming the Indian deed, bears date December 1, 1664. John Ogden of Northampton had bought out Denton's interest, and Capt. John Baker of New York was probably allowed an interest in consideration of his services as interpreter. Gov. Nicolls when he signed this patent was no doubt ignorant of the deed from the Duke of York to Berkley and Carteret made on the 24th day of June previous. Dr. Hatfield in his history of Elizabeth, thinks it probable that a formal occupation was made upon the land between October and December 1664, and that occupation by actual settlers soon followed. Mr. William A. Whitehead, in his last edition of East Jersey under the Proprietors, gives proof that when Gov. Philip Carteret arrived in 1665, but four English-speaking families were to be found in New Jersey, pioneers of the Jamaica Colony. The patent granted by Governor Nicolls and the Indian purchase were relied upon in after years by the citizens as giving them a good title independent of that of Berkley and Carteret, but the latter grant was prior to the Nicolls patent and a vast amount of litigation was caused by these conflicting grants, lasting until the Revolutionary war put an end to it.

The first meeting house was of wood and of a very humble style of architecture. It was replaced by a new church in 1724, fifty-eight feet in length and forty-two feet in width. An addition in the rear of sixteen feet was made in 1766. On the night of January 25, 1780, a party of British troops and refugees, numbering nearly four hundred, crossed on the ice from Staten Island to Trembly's Point and were led by three Elizabethtown tories by the nearest and most retired route to the town. Here they secured a few prisoners, plundered many of the inhabitants, burned the Court House and Meeting House, and retreated with haste by way of De Hart's Point without loss. Washington spoke of this event a day or two after as "the late misfortune and disgrace of Elizabeth Town." The erection of a new church was commenced in 1784, and completed in 1789. It forms a part of the present edifice, and was extended and improved many times before it reached its present dimensions.

Dr. Kempshall in his historical discourse, delivered January 25, 1880, in celebrating the Centennial Anniversary of the burning of the church says:

"The lot on which the house was built included the present burying-ground, and extended on the west to the river (so called), and contained about eight acres. When the church property was surveyed in 1766, the Trustees affirmed 'that the first purchasers and associates did give the aforesaid tract of land for the use of the Presbyterian Church, the record of which, on or about the year 1719, was either lost or destroyed.' This statement was admitted by the Town Committee, and has constituted the only title of record to the present church property for over a century and a half. The meeting-house occupied part of the site of the present church, but, as it was much smaller, it did not cover much, if any, more than the front half, the other half containing the graves of most of the first settlers. Graves were sometimes dug under the floor of the church, a custom familiar to the early settlers and made dear by association with the habits of their ancestors in England, so that nearly the whole area of this church in which we are now gathered, is probably occupied with the dust which awaits the archangel's trump, of the first two or three generations of the people of the town."

Some of the headstones, removed to give room for the additions to the church, were set in the walls, where they can still be seen. Among them are two old headstones bearing the date 1687, erected to the memory of two sons of the widow of Captain Lawrence, who married, as her second husband, Governor Philip Carteret. Dr. Kempshall says of the lands on which the church is built—

"It is probable that for a long time the church and adjoining burial-ground was not enclosed, or if at all, only in a rude way. In 1762, immediately after the settlement of Rev. Mr. Caldwell, it was voted by the Trustees that 'the burial-ground be enclosed with a close, cedar-board fence; also agreed that a neat pale-fence be built to enclose a court-yard in the front and south end of the church.'"

In this old churchyard lie the forefathers of Elizabeth, and of many whose names are known throughout the State. Here are buried Rev. Jonathan Dickinson, Dr. John McDowell, Rev. James Caldwell, Hon. Elias Boudinot, Robert Ogden, 1st, Gen. Matthias Ogden, Gov. Aaron Ogden, Dr. Nicholas Murray, Shepard Kollock and many others prominent in the history of the country. Many of the headstones are crumbling with age and their lettering will soon become illegible. It was with a view to preserve, as well as to place in a form more convenient to the historian and genealogist, these inscriptions, that the authors of this work caused copies to be carefully made and this book to be printed. The order of location, rather than that of the alphabet has been observed, believing that the "directions to the Sexton," made in 1766, that he is "carefully to observe in the burial of the Dead, to keep the Bodies of the Respective particular Families of the Congregation together as much as possibly can be done," has been generally observed and that relationship may in many cases be indicated by situation.

St. John's Church is nearly as ancient as the First Presbyterian. The corner stone of the first building was laid on St. John the Baptist's day, 1706, on ground given by Col. Richard Townley. This building was enlarged and re-consecrated in 1841, and in 1857 the corner stone of the present handsome structure was laid. In this church yard are buried many of the earliest inhabitants of the town, and copies of the inscriptions on the headstones and monuments were necessary to complete the work proposed by the authors.

 No more affliction wrings his heart
 The unfettered soul to God returns Forever he and anguish part

Receive O earth his faded form
 In thy cold bosom let it lie Safe let it rest from every storm Soon must it rise no more to die

The pale fac'd Conqueror is often near Grim Death with ghastly Mein serves his Arrest
The proudest Monarch prostrates in y^e Dust Nor Wealth, nor Power, nor humblest Request Bribes, awes, or softens him submit we must Since it is so prepare for this dark Home
By making Christ your true and lasting Friend

Beloved child, to Jesus go Yet o'er thy Tomb our tears shall flow
We would love Jesus too and trust That when our frames return to dust
On wings of love our souls may rise
And meet thy spirit in the skies

Sacred to the memory of

M^{rs} JANE WINANS

wife of

Capt. Benjamin Winans

who departed this life

May 30th 1812, in the 63^d year of her age

What e'er the wife and friend should be,

In this imperfect state was she,
What e'er the christian's promised prize,

She now possesses in the skies.
This prize eternity alone,
To kindred spirits can make known,
Reader aspire, earth's not thy home,
Seek here by faith a heaven to come.

Thy way is in the sea and thy path in the great waters, and thy footsteps are not known.

The Lord reigneth, let the earth rejoice

Our flesh shall rest in hope. It is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption. It is sown in dishonor it is raised in glory

This corruptible must put on Incorruption

and this mortal shall put on immortality

Then shall be brought to pass the saying, Death is swallowed up

Clos'd are those eyes in endless night
No more to beam with fond delight,
Or with affection roll.
Eternal silence seals that tongue
Where sence and soft persuasion hung To captivate the soul that Oh, she was all thought can paint
The mortal rising to the saint

In every deed of life
 At once the fatal arrows end the
 The fondest child kindest Friend
 And most endearing Wife Fair as the break of opening day Calm as the summers evening ray Truth, virtue, was her guide
 When Sister Spirits call'd her hence Obedience bow'd at life's expence
 She sigh'd, she sunk, she dy'd Immortal saint supremely bright Look down through skies of purest Light
 And bid afflictions cease
 Oh, smooth thy Husbands lonely bed
 In visions hover round his head
 And hush his mind to peace

A friend has gone a mother dear,
Whose last remains are resting here ;
Jesus' love whilst here below,
Oft did light her careworn brow.

She oft did speak and feel the words so true,
Which is to all and reader you ;
We must enjoy the love divine,
That we may all in glory shine.

He who lies beneath this sod Whilst here on earth he sought his God
The Pearl of greatest price he found He was filled with joy and peace of mind
An interest in Salvation's plan he e'er did show Whilst passing through this world of woe.

 and 17 Days.

How still and peaceful is the grave,
 No pain, no grief, no anxious fear,
 Invade thy bounds, no mortal woes
 Can reach the peaceful sleeper here

—o—

This lovely bud so young and fair Call'd hence by early doom
 Just came to show how sweet a flower
 In paradise would bloom

1844 & Died in this town June 8 1850 Aged 6 years & 21 days

We loved, yes no tongue can tell How much we loved him and how well God loved him too, and He thought best To take him home to be at rest.

Sweet child tho'rt soon released from earth
From sorrow greif and pain Why should we greive from thee to part
Our loss is but thy gain
We trust in God though sad in heart
That we shall meet again

Thy gentle manners—tenderness & truth

Thy filial virtues and thy rising worth Tho late the bright inhabitants of earth

Are now no more—deaths winged arrow flies

And slays our hopes to raise thee to the skies

Submit our souls to heavens afflictive

Alas they're gone three lovely flow'rs Which bloomed and cheered our hearts

Fair fleeting comforts of an hour
How soon we're call'd to part.
And shall our bleeding hearts arraign
That God whose ways are love
Or vainly cherish anxious pain
For them who rest above?

No! let us rather humbly pay Obedience to his will
And with our inmost spirits say
"The Lord is righteous still."

“Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God.” Matt. 5 c. 8 v.

SACRED

to the memory of CAPT ROBERT EDES
who died at Sea in sight of the Island of St. Michals, Aug. 27th, 1836 aged 47 years 5 months
and 16 days

His remains now lie interred in the Episcopal Burial Ground of that Island.

Here sleeps all that was mortal of his Son Henry Phelps Edes
who died Aug. 6th 1836 aged 2 years 4 months and 16 days.

Here also sleep another little Son Robert Henry Edes
who died Dec. 15th 1837 aged 1 year 1 month and 13 days.

E're sin could blight, or sorrow fade Death came with friendly care
These opening buds to Heaven conveyed And bade them blossom there.
